THE HAMPTONS

My residence in the Hamptons is “home” for me and my family. Whenever I can escape the chaos of urban living, I immediately return to my home and the natural beauty of the Hamptons. Life is full here with children and grandchildren gathering around the table for meals and conversation. We reconnect, relax and enjoy each other’s company whether around the table or outside at the pool, where these Balinese pieces take on a different purity and purpose.

These are the couches where I curl up with grandchildren, the poolside chaises where I spend quiet, sundrenched afternoons, the table and chairs where countless meals with family and friends have gathered and offer us a sense of timelessness and familiarity. Just as generations of Bali artisans have created such furniture, I know these pieces that hold memories and love will be passed down through generations of my family.

HAMPTONS PHOTOGRAPHY BY PAUL WARCHOL

Balinese furniture speaks to my passions and inspires my imagination. It is strong, simple and authentic. The teak does the talking, the artisan hand the sculpting. Open and inviting, the look works indoors and out. Yet as much as I love traditional Balinese furniture, I need pieces to work with my lifestyle, pieces that are iconic, sophisticated, versatile. Bonetti Kozerski Studio and I worked closely with local artisans and detailed modern proportions and the purest, most elemental, yet highly functional shapes. This is how I live in every room, in every home, be it my apartment in New York city, my home in The Hamptons or my life in Parrot cay. Through urban Zen, we bring it home to you. Entirely handmade in Bali, these pieces are the essence of comfort, the contrast of strong lines and soft pillows. They work with any décor or sensibility, balancing casual simplicity with authentic richness. I love the generous scale, the open structure. They invite you to curl up, alone or with the whole family. Each piece is a personal expression, ready to be customized to your style. There’s a variety of colors/stains, be it natural, aged, golden honey, brown or black lacquer. You’ll love how the pieces entertain, and how they sleep. You’ll love how they seduce your imagination, taking you around the world, while always being completely and sensually at home wherever you may live.

PARROT CAY

While NYC is my work and the Hamptons is my home, Parrot Cay is my paradise. Years ago, my husband and I stood on barren sand here, overwhelmed by the natural beauty and sublime serenity. We promised each other to create a home away from home for our family to gather together and be strengthened by our love for each other. Parrot Cay is my spiritual center, a place where the very air soothes my mind, body and spirit. I wanted to surround myself with quiet elegance and spiritual strength. There was never a question that the purity and essence of Bali would be central to my paradise home. The natural adaptability of this teak allows me to throw open the windows and doors to let the fresh ocean breeze sweep through my home.
